

From the Department Head

As of October 1, 2005, I've assumed the role of department head in Agricultural and Extension Education. One of the motivating factors in my decision is the opportunity to work and interact with our talented faculty, staff, and students. I'd like to share some of our major accomplishments from the 2005-06 year. As you will see, it has been a very productive year!

In keeping with tradition, several individuals were recognized for their accomplishments and contributions to their profession and the academy. Patreese Ingram received the 2005-06 College of Agricultural Sciences Diversity Award. Marilyn Corbin was recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture with the National Diversity Award and Kansas State University, College of Human Ecology awarded her the Distinguished Service Award. Daniel Perkins received the 2005 Penn State Extension Director's Faculty Spirit Award. Rama Radhakrishna was recognized as a 2006 NACTA Teaching Fellow. Dennis Scanlon was the 2006 recipient of the College Alumni Society Excellence in Advising Award. David Bittner, AEE undergraduate, was selected to receive the Penn State Ag Council Youth Leadership Award and John Boateng, AEE doctoral student, received the Kozak Award from the Penn State Phi Delta Kappa chapter. While it is not possible to note all accomplishments in this column, additional information on award recipients is located in this newsletter.

On another note, during spring 2006 we successfully filled two tenure line faculty positions. Kris Ricketts and John Ewing will be joining our department in August. Cathie Graham and Marissa Coke joined our department to fill two staff positions this past spring.

Please join me in congratulating the following faculty as they were notified of their promotion and/or tenure decisions earlier this spring: Claudia Mincemoyer - tenure and promotion to associate professor; Rama Radhakrishna and Matt Kaplan - tenure; and Daniel Perkins - tenure and promotion to professor.

Another accomplishment was the submission of our departmental Strategic Plan (2006-09) on July 1. The participatory engagement of our faculty and staff in the development of this plan is evident in its contemporary and visionary focus.

Enrollment in our undergraduate and graduate programs continue to grow. As in the past, we welcome your assistance in recruitment efforts.

While this column only highlights a few examples of our accomplishments, additional evidence of our growth, commitment, and creativity are included in this edition of the newsletter. Thank you for your continued support and for keeping us informed about important events in your life. I wish you the best in 2006-07. Our Web site <http://aee.cas.psu.edu> provides a great link to the department.

Thank you. Tracy Hoover

Department Updates

Faculty Hires

We are very pleased to announce that Dr. Kristina Ricketts will be joining the department in August at the rank of assistant professor. Dr. Ricketts will hold a teaching/research appointment and will provide direction to our resident education leadership education and development program. Kris currently serves as the Assistant to the Vice President of Marketing, Cracker Barrel Old County Store, Inc. in Lebanon, TN. She earned her baccalaureate degree from the University of Nebraska in Agricultural Leadership, Education, and Communications, and her M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Florida with specializations in Leadership Development, Community Leadership Development, and Adult and Extension Education.

We are also very pleased to announce that John Ewing will be joining the department in August at the rank of assistant professor. John will hold a teaching/research appointment and will provide support and leadership to our teacher education program. Mr. Ewing will graduate this August from the Ohio State University with his Ph.D. John earned his baccalaureate degree from the Pennsylvania State University in Agricultural and Extension Education and taught agricultural science at Octorara High School from 2000-03. Mr. Ewing earned his M.S. and Ph.D. (August 2006) from the Ohio State University with specializations in Teacher Education and Research and Statistics.

Please join us in welcoming Kristina and John to our department!

Scholarships

Dr. Sam Curtis and his late wife Joan Curtis endowed a scholarship which provides support to AEE undergraduate and graduate students who were active in 4-H and/or FFA in high school. Mr. John T. Smith and the late Paige S. Smith endowed a scholarship to provide recognition and financial assistance to outstanding graduate and undergraduate students enrolled or planning to enroll in Agricultural and Extension Education. Individuals can view all AEE scholarships by visiting the college Web site <http://scholarships.cas.psu.edu/>.

Resident Education Enrollment

Enrollment continues to grow for the department. There are approximately 58 undergraduates majoring in AEE, 33 undergraduates majoring in Ag Science, and 25 full-time graduate students.

AEE is Moving to Ferguson Building!

The AEE Department is moving! In summer 2007 the department will be moving to the Ferguson Building. The move will result in more space for the department.

Renovations of the building are currently taking place in preparation for the move.

Collegiate 4-H Spreads Cheer

This past December the Collegiate 4-H again sponsored their “Boxes of Cheer” campaign. This annual service-learning project engages six colleges around the University Park campus, Greek organizations and county extension offices in collecting quality of life items that are sent to individuals in the armed services stationed overseas. This year, Collegiate 4-H also sponsored a speaker during their packing night. Maj. Dickinson from PSU ROTC talked to a group of over 50 individuals about his experience as a US Marine Corps officer and his tours of duty during operations Desert Storm and Enduring Freedom. Local UPS Stores donated all of the packing materials and Collegiate 4-H and their partners were able to ship over 40 boxes overseas!

Personnel Actions

New Faces

Marissa Coke joined the department in January. Marissa came to Penn State in October 2001 after working for The Barash Group. She started her Penn State career within Outreach, World Campus in the Data Management Services department before moving to The College of Education, Workforce Education and Development Unit. She lives in State College with her husband, Kevin.

Cathie Graham joined the department this May. She started at Penn State in May of 2001 at the World Campus/Student Services working with adult learners around the world as a student service representative. Cathy was involved in scheduling, enrolling students in their classes, and maintaining their academic records. She and her husband train and raise Brittany Spaniel bird dogs for hunting and field trials. They love NASCAR and gardening.

Partings

Dorothy Thomas retired from Penn State on December 31, 2005. Dorothy first started at PSU in 1967, and after taking some time off to raise her family, she joined the department on November 7, 1978. Dorothy's energy, sense of humor, and willingness to help will be missed.

Dr. Robert Lewis also retired from Penn State on December 31. Bob started at Penn State in 1969, and joined the department in 1988 as a 4-H Youth Extension Specialist. We wish him all the best.

Condolences

Richard Stinson, Professor Emeritus of Agricultural Education and Horticulture, passed away on May 12, 2006. Dr. Stinson retired from Penn State in 1991 after 24 years.

Excellence Fund

Public support for land-grant programs continues to diminish. To maintain the quality of our programs, we depend on the support of our alumni and friends. Additional support will enable us to enhance our education, research, and outreach programs.

For those interested in creating an endowment to support the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education by establishing a faculty chair, a scholarship, or funding for research and extension programs, please contact Dr. Tracy Hoover (814-865-1688; tsh102@psu.edu) or Mark T. Sharer, Director of Development for the College of Agricultural Sciences (814-863-1168; mts122@psu.edu). We welcome gifts of cash and/or appreciated securities and are always pleased to discuss the many options for long-term planned or estate giving.
